

The Prevention Series

The Prevention Series by Wellsource, Inc. is a set of one- to three-hour seminar presentations designed for health educators to use in teaching the interested public how to live healthy lives and prevent serious illness. Each key topic has a presentation in PowerPoint® and a self-scored assessment to print from the CD. Together, they alert participants to personal risks to avoid and preventive actions to take..

Topics in The Prevention Series by Wellsource®

- ♦ Cancer Prevention, 118 slides
No one can predict who gets cancer, but the focus is on prevention efforts creating a healthy internal environment, watchfulness, screening, and treating early.
- ♦ Osteoporosis Prevention, 59 slides
Sixteen areas of risk are discussed, most of them modifiable. The latest researched findings are included. Suggested preventive actions are practical.
- ♦ Overcoming Depression, 33 slides
This leading cause of disability affects people world-wide. It is associated with physical changes in the brain. Symptoms vary in severity and duration and may need professional care.
- ♦ Preventing Diabetes, 88 slides
Abundant scientific research indicates that diabetes is largely preventable through lowering known risks, and when not preventable, the results of diabetes can be minimized through lifestyle.
- ♦ Preventing Heart Disease, 74 slides
Modifiable risks for heart disease are so well-established that one can speak with assurance of lifestyle behaviors that effectively lower risks for heart disease.
- ♦ Achieving a Lower Blood Pressure, 53 slides
Uncontrolled high blood pressure (BP) can lead to stroke, heart attack, heart failure, or kidney failure. Research has shown several lifestyle factors to significantly lower BP.
- ♦ Achieving Healthy Eating, 120 slides
Research increasingly demonstrates the value of a great many foods in lowering disease risk and contributing to human health as well as some foods not beneficial.
